SCREW DRIVER AND HAMMER PUT CASH REGISTER OUT

O. P. Brady found it necessary to junk his old cash register after burglars broke it open.

The new machine will soon be equipped with printing rollers to tell the people of this vicinity that each check has a real value —25 per cent of its amount—to be redeemed in Page and Shaw—the Candy of Excellence.

With five dollars in cash register receipts a regular one pound package of Page and Shaw—worth $1.25, will be given away. It is not a lottery—you have the checks—you get the candy. The Page and Shaw Co. want the Upland folks to know just how good their candies are and under this plan expect to get at least one package into every home in Upland.

Donald Craddock, former Chaffey High School pupil, but now making his home at 5084 Romaine street, Los Angeles, had a narrow escape from death at shortly after noon Sunday and sustained painful abrasions, bruises and cuts when a roadster in which he was driving south on Mountain avenue collided with a coupe going west on Tenth street and driven by L. C. Alderson of Oxnard.

After striking the coupe, Craddock's car climbed the curb and jammed itself between a palm tree and a telegraph pole and was badly wrecked. Craddock was taken to the home of Leon Durham on West Thirteenth street, where he was spending the week-end. Dr. W. H. Craig was called but found the youth's injuries not serious.

SECOND CAR OF NAVELS WILL GO EAST TOMORROW

Oranges From Weller Grove In East Highlands First Navels From District To Be Shipped This Season—Bring Big Price

The second car of oranges from the new crop will be shipped to Chicago, Detroit and Pittsburgh tomorrow, according to arrangements made Saturday with W. S. Cunningham, traveling freight agent of the Santa Fe. This car will reach the Eastern markets for the Thanksgiving trade.

The first car was shipped Saturday. All previous records for the price of early oranges were believed broken when the first Navels were sold at $7 a box f. o. b. Highland, by Fred R. Leuschen, packer and grower.

Big Price Expected

The first navels were shipped over the Santa Fe Saturday for the New York Thanksgiving market and are expected to bring a new high retail market price in the East. The oranges were picked last week from the 25-acre grove of J. E. Weller, situated on Plunge street, East Highlands.

The entire Weller crop was purchased by Mr. Leuschen who packed the fruit at the independent house of the Highland Citrus association. The oranges were found to be one and two-tenths higher than the required sugar content. The color of the oranges was also unusually good. The car was sold by Mr. Leuschen to the Randolph Marketing Co., of Riverside which shipped it. The car contained 504 boxes of the season's first fruit.

First for 10 Years

J. E. Weller of Rialto, owner of the Weller grove, said that his property had been the first for 10 years to ship navels from Southern California.

Mr. Weller announced that the quality of the oranges is unusually high as they have been on the trees a week longer than last year. The first shipment in 1926 went East around the first of November.

ARMISTICE DAY WORLD HOLIDAY

That its simultaneous celebration by 28 of the earth's nations has made Armistice Day a second world anniversary, Christmas being the first, was pointed out by Judge Charles G. Neeley of Claremont in a splendid address in Chaffey Auditorium, Friday in connection with the Ontario Armistice celebration.

The auditorium was packed for the affair and just before the opening of the program, all stood with bowed heads for 30 seconds in memory of those who gave their lives for their country. This was followed by the singing of "America" led by Prof. Ernest W. Fischer.

"This is an ordered world, not a chance world," said Judge Neeley in part. "We will profit from the World War, terrible as it was. Anything worth while requires effort and although the war cost 8,000,000 lives and 40,000,000 wounded, it has resulted in a better world today and was worth all it cost."

The speaker went on to say that preparedness is necessary to preserve peace and in this connection took occasion to remark that greater preparedness before marriage would result in less divorce.

Recalling how the Civil War had resulted in the union of the states, the speaker went on to show that with the exception of the Mexican war, for which there was no excuse, all armed struggles in which the United States has engaged have resulted in good.

"In the past war was a normal condition of society. Today, peace is the normal condition," declared Judge Neeley, who, in closing urged as a means of preventing further wars co-operation with all nations and the fostering of internationalism.

The meeting was closed with prayer, led by the Rev. Benj. A. Fye, pastor of Westminister Presbyterian church and president of the Ontario Ministerial Union.

CARBON CANYON TO BE PAVED SOON

Short Cut From Chino To Orange County and Southern Beach Points Planned By Co. Road Commission

Paving of Carbon canyon, short cut outlet for residents of the west end, to Orange county and south coast beach points, will be undertaken next spring.

Howard Way, surveyor and his deputies, are now preparing plans and specifications for the paving project. James W. Cole, county highway commissioner, Mr. Way and his deputy, J. R. Sterling, recently represented the county in a discussion on plans for the canyon paving with residents of the district affected.

Ramona avenue, one connecting link with the new canyon highway, was paved this summer. Central avenue, another link, has been improved for some time.

ORANGE SHOW CALLS BIDS ON $5,000 ANNEX

Directors Approve Drawings For Extension Of Display Building — By-Products Section Will Occupy New Space

Plans for an addition to the building of the National Orange Show were approved when presented to the board of directors yesterday by Architect DeWitt Mitcham.

Bids will be requested immediately, and will probably be opened at a meeting of the board next Monday. If a satisfactory bid is obtained, a contract will be awarded, and work will begin within the week, according to the decision of the board yesterday.

Board Votes $5,000 To Build Annex

The plans of Architect Mitcham were accepted without a reservation. Two weeks ago the architect submitted preliminary plans for the structure, which he said could be built at a cost of $5000 or less. The board then voted that amount for the purpose.

Constructed to house the rapidly growing by-products division of the Orange Show, the new building will be 80 by 100 feet. The present main building, 800 by 140 feet, is the largest permanent structure of its kind on the Pacific Coast.

Use Walls of Cafeteria Unit

The cost of constructing the addition will be materially lowered because it is possible to use the present walls of the main building and of the Orange Show cafeteria. Thus it will be necessary to construct only two walls, a roof and a floor in the new building, according to the plans of Architect Mitcham.

Efforts will be made to have the addition completed within sixty days, as considerable interior work will be necessary before the opening of the eighteenth annual show Feb. 16, Manager R. H. Mack said.

The structure will be of frame, and of the same architectural style as the present building. It will be situated just east of the main stucture.

By-Products Section Growing

Construction of the addition is necessitated by the rapid growth of the by-products division, which was formerly exhibited in the main building. Last year there was some congestion, and this year it would have been worse had the addition not been decided upon.

Entries of the packing plants, the farm bureau and the Citrus Experiment Station at Riverside will be housed in this building. Especial emphasis will be laid this year on exhibits illustrating new uses of citrus fruits in the home. Women's clubs of this district are expected to enter many of these exhibits.

BATTLE AGAINST DISEASE SUCCESS

Splendid results of the campaign instituted last year by the Ontario city board of health against diptheria through the free administration of diphtheria toxin-antitoxis were recited today by Miss Bertha Schwarzwaelder of the Ontario city nursing force.

Not one case of diptheria has been reported in Ontario this year and this the authorities hold to be largely due to last year's campaign. At that time, it is declared, fully 90 per cent of the school children were given the immunity treatment. Administration of the toxin is again under way at the present time, but those receiving it are practically all newcomers to Ontario, since those who received it previously are not obliged to repeat.

City Clerk D. B. Wynne reported that the toxin campaign has resulted in a saving of money to the city. Previous to its institution, it was costing the city from $35 to $50 for laboratory tests of cultures from the throats of diphtheria suspects. Free administration of the toxin has practically eliminated all such expense.

ONE KILLED, EIGHT HURT IN CRASH

Skidding Car and Endeavor To Dodge It By Driver of Truck Causes Crash Of Cars On El Monte-Baldwin Park Road Sunday Morning

Thrown through the windshield of the truck in which she was riding, Mrs. Sadie Stein of Highland Park was fatally injured about 10 o'clock Sunday morning when the truck, driven by her husband, R. Stein, who was driving a truck driven by R. N. Stryker of Glendale. The accident occurred at the corner of Monterey avenue and El Monte road, Baldwin Park.

According to Captain Gordon and Deputy Locke of the San Dimas sub-station of the sheriff's office, Stein, who was driving t truck for a bread company, attempted to avoid a collision with a skidding car when his truck crashed into the sedan driven by Mr. Stryker.

In the Stryker car were Mrs. Stryker, Thomas and Hattie Sherwin and their children, William and Leland. All were badly shaken up and bruised, but sustained no serious injuries. At their request they were removed to the Physicians and Surgeons hospital at Glendale.

Mrs. Stein was rushed to the Covina hospital, but died on the road. The remains were later removed to the James Taylor undertaking establishment at Covina, where, it is understood, the inquest will be held. Stein was removed to the hospital but an examination revealed that he was not seriously injured.

Raymond Stein, 10-year-old son of the truck driver, who was riding with his parents, escaped injury.

URGES AIRPORTS FOR ALL CITIES

Flying from his home in Glendale, accompanied by Jay Hall, local Kiwanian, to Ontario Airport in just 29 minutes, Dr. T. C. Young appeared Friday as the principal speaker before the Ontario Kiwanis Club in luncheon session at Hotel Casa Blanca.

Dr. Young, who is president of the Glendale Kiwanis organization and a member of the committee from Kiwanis Inter-national for the investigation of aeronautics, was greeted on landing at 11:49 A. M., one minute ahead of schedule by a large gathering of Ontario Kiwanians.

The speaker took for his subject "Commercial Aeronautics." In the course of his talk, he declared that people will not make a practice of flying as a regular thing until they can get in a ship, fly through the air with reasonable safety in any kind of weather and be assured of arriving at their destination on schedule. One of the first steps necessary to bring this about, Dr. Young held to be the establishment of adequate airports in all cities. The size of the airport, he declared, should depend largely on its altitude, since a ship will take the air in a much shorter distance at the coast than at a high altitude.

By way of emphasizing the time-saving value of the airplane, Dr. Young outlined his activities for one day. Leaving Glendale just before sun-up, he reached Ontario just as the sun was peeping over the horizon. Continuing, he went to Coalinga. There he took a motor car for a 15-mile ride, at the end of which he rode a burro for seven miles, viewed some ancient Indian relics, made the return donkey and motor trip, planed back to Glendale, dressed for dinner and danced at the Cocoanut Grove till 2 A. M.

The privilege of riding back to Glendale with Dr. Young was raffled off and fell to Charles J. Booth, who, being unable to go paid a heavy fine.

A. L. Davenport, club president was in charge of the meeting and Alan A. Couch was program chairman.

6 DIVORCES ARE GAINED HERE AS DEFAULT CASES

Causes are Evenly Divided Between Desertion and Cruelty Charges

Six divorces were granted Monday by Superior Judge Charles L. Albson when the weekly default calendar was cleared of cases. The causes set forth were evenly divided between cruelty and desertion.

Barney Goodstein received his decree when he complained that his wife, Rebecca, subjected him to a wide variety of abuse ranging from hurling dishes and the family pocketbook and slamming doors to refusing to cook or serve meals. One of the charges was that Mrs. Goodstein threw her husband's clothing out of the house and standing in the doorway roundly "cussed" him in no uncertain terms. That this cursing of Goodstein was a very common occurance was further set forth in the divorce complaint.

Claimed he Was Humiliated

Claiming that the household was dominated by his wife to the exclusion of his friends, Mr. Goodstein claimed that he was not allowed to entertain at his own home and that he was humiliated openly before those who did visit the home. That he endured this sort of home life for over three years was asserted by the husband who recited the fact that his marriage occurred May 22, 1924, and the final separation was not until Aug. 22, of this year.

Another divorce granted on the grounds of cruelty went to Frances Grimes from her husband, Nathan Grimes. The marriage was dated June 6, 1910 and the separation occurred on March 1, of this year.

Cruelty Wins Decree

The same cause of action won a decree for Aurolia R. Valenzuella, when he received a divorce from Fidel Valenzuella. The couple was wed on Dec. 17, 1923, and separated last September.

Desertion was given as grounds for the other three decrees issued to Sam E. Brooks from Ethel Brooks, who were married Nov. 7, 1914, and separated in September of last year; Paul H. Webb from Cherry B. Webb, married Jan. 20, 1922 and separated in August of last year; Owen A. Clickenger, from Nellie Clickenger, married April 28, 1913, separated Aug. 15, 1921.

"Criticized" craft talks featured the regular weekly meeting of the 20-30 Club of Upland last night. Members gave five minute talks which were to be criticized by other members as an aid to the speaker in pointing out his weak spots and to help to correct the form of delivery, makeup of the talk etc. The method was found to be very beneficial and it was decided to have these talks once a month in the future.

Speakers last night were Floyd Chambers, "Immigration;" Elno Steiner, "Fire Department," and Sam Lamb "Police Department." Critics were George Swindells, Isaiah Steiner and Ronald Poole.

SALE OF CHINO'S SCHOOL BONDS DELAYED BY CO.

Pending probe by the grand jury of financial affairs of the Chino school district, the board of supervisors withheld sale of a $25,000 bond issue recently voted by that district.

Members of the Chino school trustees will be questioned by the grand jury. The inquiry, it is indicated, does not involve the question of the personal honesty of the members of the board, but does involve the method by which the trustees have transferred money from one fund to another. Money of the elementary school district has on occasions been used for high school purposes and vice versa, it is declared.

The bids by bond buyers for the $25,000 5 per cent issue were as follows: Alin H. Frank & Co., $870.30; United States National Bank, $845; Pierce, Fair & Co., $815; Bayly Brothers, $803.10; William R. Staats Co., $709; Anglo London Paris Co., $642; Bank of Italy, $535.56; Russell Sutherlin & Co., $279.

The district attorney suggested that action be deferred pending a decision on apeal of the case of C. A. Puller, who won a judgment in the superior court.

The Big Issue

(Le Mesa Scout)

What is the greatest power in this country today—money or the civil government? That is the issue that has finally come to the front in this trial of Fall and Sinclair for conspiring to defraud the government. Attempts on the part of Sinclair to bribe members of the jury have been discovered and the judge was obliged to hold it a mistrial and continue the case until next January.

Now the situation is such that it becomes a test case of government against concentrated wealth. By their acts the Fall-Doheny-Sinclair gang have defied and flouted the government. In effect they say that they are so powerful that the government can't do anything with them. They have so much money that they can with impunity bribe government officials to help them to steal the government's resources. They can't be brought to justice and the penalties of the law inflicted upon them because they can bribe and corrupt the government's agencies of justice so as to render it helpless. They can hire such smart lawyers that conviction is rendered practically impossible, no matter how strong a case the government may have. If the case gets to a jury and there is danger of conviction they will, with their money, hire private detectives to bribe the jury and thus prevent conviction. All the government's machinery of justice can be rendered ineffective and powerless against them because of their skillful use of unlimited money to accomplish that purpose.

That is in substance exactly what this gang of robbers says to the most powerful and best government in the world. And up to date they have accomplished their purpose and been the winners in the fight. The crimes of which they are supposed to be guilty were committed four years ago For a long time there was no serious effort made to bring them to trial, or if it was made it was effectively blocked by the gang. Then Fall and Doheny were tried in Washington and acquitted by a jury, and the revelations in this trial as to jury tampering cast suspicion upon the results of that trial.

Up to this time they have succeeded in beating every effort of the government to make them amenable to the laws of the country as all other men are. Up to now they have won. What is to be the final result of the fight? Are the people going to show this gang of robbers that they are subject to our laws like other men, or is the government going to admit that it is powerless to enforce its laws against men who have the command of big money?

Confronting the country in the way it does, it is the biggest issue that has been presented since 1880, when the slave power defied the government and attempted its destruction in order to substitute a system of slavery for freedom.

Prosperity Undeniable

(San Bernardino Telegram)

Any American who is inclined to engage in what the senior Morgan described as the most risky of speculations, being a bear on the future of these United States, should note the October securities record with analytic care before committing himself to the short side. An absorption of $872,842,000 does not look as if the country faced uncertainty.

The $787,738,000 put into bonds makes a record for the year, and indicates no doubt in the minds of investors as to the safety of tying up funds in such fashion that they will not be in fluid form, in case of any grave financial or commercial setback. The fact that more than $109,000,000 went into industrials speaks for progressive plans in manufacturing. The $264,000,000 devoted to utilities shows an alert body of managers planning confidently for immediate development.

And $243,622,500 for foreign bonds is pretty sound testimony of belief that conditions abroad are by way of stabilization under the Dawes plan. The world seems to be consolidating its financial gains and preparing with confidence for the future.

This English

We'll begin with box; the plural is boxes,
But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.
One fowl is a goose, but two are called geese,
Yet the plural of mouse should never be meese.
You may find a lone mouse, or a whole nest of mice.
But the plural of house is houses, not hice.
If the plural of man is always called men,
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?
The cow in the plural may be called cows, or kine,
But a bow, if repeated, is never called bine;
And the plural of vow is vows, never vine.
If I speak of a foot and you show me two feet,
And I give you a boot, would a pair be called beet?
If one is a tooth and a whole set are teeth,
Why shouldn't the plural of bath be called beeth?
If the singular's this, and the plural is these,
Should the plural of kiss ever be written keese?
Then one may be that, and the two would be those,
Yet hat in the plural would never be hose.
And the plural of cat is cats, and not cose.
We speak of a brother, and also of brethren,
But though we say mother, we never say methren.
Then the masculine pronouns are he, his and him,
But imagine the feminine: she, shis and shim!
So the English, I think you all will agree,
Is the funniest language you ever did see.

Shifting Tax Burden

(Orange Daily News)

Shifting of tax burdens from city to country and higher electric rates for farmers will result if San Francisco is permitted to condemn the electrical distribution systems which serve it, L. S. Wing, engineer of the California Farm Bureau Federation, asserted on the witness stand on October 25th, while testifying in the valuation proceedings in progress before the State Railroad Commission.

Engineer Wing was put on the stand by the farmers' organization to offer testimony in support of its contention that the proposed condemnation is a step backward and, if allowed, will be anti-social in its effect.

Through its witness, the Farm Bureau traced the history of the electrical industry from the short experimental lighting lines of forty years ago to the far-reaching interconnected systems of the present time, showing that the almost universal use of electricity of today was brought about by the consolidation of many classes of business. Consolidation, by making mass production and transmission possible, said the witness, produced a constant and uniform load from many non-uniform demands. As a result additional loads could be served at prices industry could pay and the cost of energy was reduced to all.

The agricultural load, heavy in summer and very light in winter, was cited as an example. This load, said the witness, complements the lighting load of the cities, which is heavy in the winter or long-night period, and much lighter in summer. This ideal combination, it was pointed out, permits the utilities to use the same equipment to serve both loads with a consequent lower rate for both city lighting and agricultural power.

If the cities, said the Farm Bureau representatives, are permitted for political or other reasons to withdraw from that mutually beneficial combination, rates will undoubtedly be raised in the outside territory, to the detriment of both city and country.

Against Book L'arnin'

(Imperial Valley Press)

You would hardly expect a professional educator to condemn books as a means of education. Yet that very thing is done by Dr. Charles W. Hunt, head of a well-known American school for the education of educators.

"Books," he complains, "are crammed with second-hand experience. They are the records of what somebody else saw, felt or said. We have clung to them year after year largely out of sheer laziness. It is so much easier to teach when all you have to do is compel the children to read something in a book and then repeat it to you.

"But life all around us is crammed with educative materials. Within a few years, I predict, children will go in excursions into shops, factories and on the streets to learn at first hand"

Maybe they will, more or less. But it is certainly going to add to the traffic problem and worry a lot of mothers if all the children in the public schools are to be poured onto the street and towed around town by their teachers, to learn everything by direct observation.

The old Peripatetic School in Greece used to use that method. The instructor talked to his pupils while they trailed him in the open air. That doubtless helped to keep them awake. But the teacher kept them pretty well outside of the congested districts; and anyway, learning was less complicated in those days.

Now there are millions of things for children to learn. How can they learn them all at first hand? A long lifetime would be far too short for the education of the child who tried to learn everything for himself or for the teacher who tried to show him everything and explain it on the spot.

Books are inadequate, but they are short cuts to knowledge. The bright child, through them, may multiply his knowledge infinitely, packing into a few years the condensed experience of many ages and millions of lives.

It suffices to take the child out to face the real thing occasionally, giving him something solid to stand on. Then books will open up to him.

Age of Achievement

(Orange Daily News)

How old is too old? Many curbstone philosophers, at least those under 50 years of age, contend that little of worth is accomplished by men who have passed the half-century mark. Youth is accustomed to looking at 40 as the peak age, and that is also established by some compounders of success formulas as to the age at which a man must have made his mark in the world, if he is going to make it. The South Bend (Indiana) Tribune offers along this line of reflection the following in substance:

Dr. W A. Newman Dorland of Chicago has discovered that the acme of achievement has been set back considerably. Summarizing the lives of 400 of the most famous men in history in an article in the Welfare Magazine, of the State of Illinois, Dr. Dorland draws the conclusion that renowned men live from 20 to 30 years longer than those of past ages and that they reach the peak of achievement ten years later in life. He states that 50 was the average age at which the 400 did their best work, but that world leaders who are still living do not reach the limit of their ability until they are past 60 or close to 70.

"In the World War all the great commanders on both sides, Hindenberg, von Bulow, Foch, Haig and Pershing, were 60 or near it. J. Pierpont Morgan, at the age of 70, raised $40,000,000 in '40 hours and stopped the panic of 1907.' Obviously, the practice of urging retirement on men who have reached 60 is unwise. If the United States were to lose the services of its outstanding men who have reached or passed 60, it would be in a sad plight This is a high-speed age, an age in which youth is predominant, but it is plain that youth can no longer be gauged by years."

Dinner Club Enjoys Meet

unching the first dinner and party of their social sea- Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dzie delightful hosts on Saturday ing, at their home in Hell- avenue, to members of the a Dinner Club, one of the old- social clubs in Cucamonga-Alta a, and widely known for their good times and gracious hos- lity.

he Dzie home was all aglow many lights and comfy fires, h shared the greeting with members and invited guests he evening. Baskets and bowls of chrysanthemums and colorful fall flowers adorned the spacious living room, where five tables were arranged for the card games following the sumptuous fried chicken dinner served at seven o'clock. As president of the club for the past three years, Mr. W. J. Kincaid presided, bringing greetings for the new year and called for the report of the nominating committee composed of H. L. Salisbury, Mrs. W. J. Kincaid and Mrs. E. S. Bishop, the latter submitting the following slate of officers for the ensuing year: for president, Gilbert Dzie; for vice president, Mrs. W. E. Morse; for secretary and treasurer, Mrs. George S. Foster, all of whom were unanimously elected. In the business session, it was voted to hold the club meetings on the third and fourth Thursdays of the month, instead of on Fridays as heretofore. It was decided also, to offer a grand prize for both ladies and gentlemen's high score at the end of the season, as an incentive for expert playing throughout the year, this in addition to the prizes awarded at each meeting.

The five-hundred game was the happily informal amusement of the evening, with the high club honors won by Mrs. Clyde Gates and E. S. Bishop. Guest trophy was carried away by Mrs. W. H. Converse, while Mr. Geo. S Foster and Mrs. B. H. Wilson were happily consoled for lowest score.

Enjoying Mr. and Mrs. Dzie's hospitality were the following club members: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Thorpe, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kincaid, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bishop, Mr. W. B. Harvey, Mrs. B. H. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Gates of Pomona. Guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hawkey, Upland, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorpe, of Santa Monica. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop will entertain the club at the next meeting, Friday evening, Dec. 2nd, at the Red Hill Country Club, with dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Luncheon to Feature Opening

Red Hill Country Club is opening their fall series of luncheons and teas this afternoon with a one o'clock luncheon, followed by the bridge tourney. Attractive table prizes will be offered the winners and the clubhouse will be beautifully decorated for the affair. The hostess committee of the afternoon announce that ninety reservations received up to Saturday with always the usual last minute reservations.

Club Delightfully Entertained

Handsome long stemmed roses of a delicate pink, in a green crystal bowl, formed a most attractive floral piece at a bridge luncheon at which Miss Gertrude Reid was hostess on Thursday afternoon at her home in No. Hellman avenue, members of the Alta Loma Bridge Club and others being her guests on this occasion. Bowls of gorgeous zinnias and red roses added to the attractiveness of the living rooms, where bridge tables were grouped around the fire place. Twelve auction devotees enjoyed the game following the delectable one o'clock luncheon, with Mrs. Franklin Roth making high score in the play. Guests other than club members included Mrs. J. H. Williams, of Cucamonga and Mrs. H. A. Spies of Ontario.

Armistice Day Marks Birthday

Henry Albert Sr., of Alta Loma, well known citrus grower, proudly and very patriotically in the spirit of Thanksgiving for the son that was spared to him after the great world conflict, each year observes his natal anniversary which falls on November 11th, Armistice Day, with a happy family gathering, presiding at a feast of good things, with a table beautifully decorated in colorful flags and red, white and blue flowers.

Last Friday the popular Thanksgiving bird, browned to a turn, with all the delectable trimmings, prepared by the daughters of the honoree, Misses Eleanor and Mary Albert, in celebration of the event, was the piece de resistance on the festive board, where covers were arranged for the honoree, Mr. Albert and Mrs. Albert, their son, Henry Albert Jr., of Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dredge of San Bernardino, and Misses Eleanor and Mary Albert.

Mr. Albert was the recipient of some pretty and useful birthday remembrances, among them being a gorgeous bouquet of chrysanthemums, a lovely remembrance from the gardens of Mrs. Amy Hawker, grower of choice "mums."

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Noble and daughters of Los Angeles were visiting relatives in Ontario on Armistice Day. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kincaid of Cucamonga joined them for the football game in the afternoon.

Mrs. W. C. Belden and daughter Miss Marian, motored to Los Angeles on Saturday where they spent the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thorpe and baby son of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorpe of Santa Monica and Mrs. Lucia Demens of Pasadena, were out from the city on Armistice Day and the holiday week-end was spent with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Thorpe in Alta Loma.

Mrs. J. T. Haddock returned last week to her home on Base Line after a five months' trip east, where she visited her daughter, and other relatives at Chicago and other eastern points.

Miss Helen Keyes, accompanied by her aunt, Miss Ashie Mae Milliken, are enjoying a three weeks' motor tour up the coast to San Francisco, where they will visit relatives and friends, and on to Fort Bragg, weather permitting, where Miss Milliken will enjoy meeting many of her former friends of the old school days, when she "taught the young idea how to shoot" in the northern city.

A. M. Dishman, with his son and daughter, formerly of Fullerton, has purchased a two acre tract of ground on Base Line Heights, west of Hellman avenue, on which they plan to build at once. They plan to enter the poultry business.

Service Clubs Meet

Alta Loma Community Club held their regular monthly meeting Thursday evening of last week in their club rooms in Lomita Drive, instead of Friday, owing to the holiday.

Rev. Donald Clarey, pastor of the Cucamonga Service Club at their Monday evening meeting last week. His subject was "World Peace." A feature of the evening was the rousing welcome given a returned service member, George Klusman, just home after five months in Europe. After a round of members by Judge James Sharp, acting sergeant at arms, reciting all the glorious places seen and things done by the returned traveler, asking each member what he thought he should pay for those priviledges, it was soon necessary to draft secretary Clark as bookkeeper to keep tract of the fines, which amounted to $25.00, to which Mr. Klusman to show his heart was in the right place, generously made it $30 and following an animated club song in his honor, added another $5. In a speech of appreciation for the reception the club had given him, Mr. Klusman stated he really was "getting off cheap at that," considering everything that had entered into his European trip and his pleasure at arriving back home.

Cucamonga Woman's Club

Cucamonga Woman's Club is meeting Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. A. P. Pridge, Carnelian street, Mrs. Robert Nesbit assisting. Jas. L. Cairn, secret service officer, will be the speaker.

"LITTLE EVA" IS HELD TO ANSWER

Mrs. Eva Davis, alias Eva Hamilton, and known to the police as "Little Eva," comely and smartly dressed, appeared yesterday morning in Judge George B. Crane's court for preliminary examination on a charge of driving a motor car while intoxicated, and was held to answer to the superior court. She produced no witnesses to testify in her behalf and refused to take the stand herself.

Mrs. Davis, in response to queries, declared she had not seen her "gel'man fr'en'", W. L. Gant of Pomona, since the two of [illegible] Oct. [illegible] under [illegible] nd if [illegible] Gant [illegible] was reported [illegible] s declared forfeited when he failed to appear for hearing. Mrs. Davis' bail was left fixed at $500.

The story of the arrest of the pair was told by Chief of Police J. F. Sawyer and Patrolmen Harold Anderson and J. L. Loch, all of whom took the witness stand.

According to their testimony, the man and woman, with the latter at the steering wheel, were found parked in a motor car on Tenth Street near Mountain Avenue. When the officers sought to place them under arrest, Mrs. Davis drove away at a high rate of speed with the police in hot pursuit. During the chase, in which they attained a reputed speed of 60 miles an hour, Gant is alleged to have poured out the contents of a jug of wine and to have thrown the container at the roadside. When the car occupied by the pair was finally stoped, the man was at the steering wheel, having changed places with the woman during the mad dash.

All three officers pronounced Mrs. Davis gloriously intoxicated at the time and recited how she became sick while in the office of the police station.

Everything is in readiness for the Odd Fellows turkey dinner and program which will be held tomorrow evening at the Odd Fellows Hall on Second avenue. Tickets for the delightful affair have been selling very rapidly and those who have not as yet gotten their "bits-of pasteboard" had better step lively or there won't be any turkey left.

Members of the Upland Odd Fellows organization have gained an enviable reputation as hosts of the first magnitude and those who are fortunate enough to attend tomorrow's dinner are assured of a delightful evening.

Just to show what fine sports they are and as an extra measure of cheeriness, a fine turkey will be given away at the close of the evening to the person holding the lucky number. McVey's Colored Jazz Orchestra has also been secured for the evening and they will present a program of music and dancing later in the evening.

BIRTHDAY DINNER HONORS FATHER—

An unusually happy affair of Sunday and one that complimented Mr. Henry Chaffee on the occasion of his seventy-third birthday anniversary, was the delightful surprise birthday dinner given by his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Miller at her home, 535 First avenue.

The Miller home was beautifully decorated with many attractive bouquets of chrysanthemums, while in the dining room dainty color tones of pink were reflected in the tall lighted tapers and favors.

Dinner was announced at one o'clock and a decorated birthday cake agleam with seventy-three tiny pink candles, was a feature of the delicious menu. The honoree received many beautiful birthday remembrances and among those who came to dine with him and to wish him many happy returns of the day were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Chaffee and their daughter June from Huntington Park; Mrs. George Schlecht and her son Richard; Miss Hazel and Miss Dorothy Miller and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miller.

BUSINESS WOMEN PLANNING INTERESTING MEETING—

Members of the Upland Business and Professional Woman's club are planning an unusually interesting session for their next regular monthly dinner meeting which will be held the evenin of December 6th at the Davis Cafe.

As a dinner speaker they will have on this occasion, John Ans Ford, B. A., of Los Angeles, who will give an illustrated address Europe. Mr. Ford has titled t lecture "Europe from a Steering Wheel," and nearly four thousand miles of motor travel by Mr. and Mrs. Ford in their motor car in 1927 has produced the material for this lecture. The travelers additional background for th lightful travelogue, in as traveled in the same countri 1914 during which they completely encircled the western front after the outbreak of hostilities. Mr. Ford also visited the continent in 1906 and 1926 and each picture offered by Mr. Ford is a carefully made study that tells a distinct story. Motor boating and flying as well as motoring contributed to this delightful lecture.

Mr. Ford, who has won an enviable place for himself in the lectuaring world has a veritable genius for discovering the dramatic in the commonplace and for being ready with his camera at every interesting scene. He brings to his unusual travelogues the fruit of several years training as a newspaper and magazine writer, having served several leading metropolitan dailies in this country and contributed to such national magazines as The Outlook, Country Gentleman, Dearborn Independent, Illustrated London News, Scientific America, Motor Life, Field and Stream and Touring Topics. Members of the music committee are also planning special musical numbers for this occasion and several well known artists will have a place on the evening's program.

With Christmas coming just three weeks later, members of the welfare committee are asking all those who have toys, books or bric-a-brac, that they would care to contribute to the Salvage Shop to kindly bring their donations to this dinner meeting and following the session they will be taken to the shop. All business and professional women are asked to keep this date open and to send their reservations to Miss Margaret Fay is the business manager as soon as possible.

CHORAL SECTION PROGRESSING SPLENDIDLY—

Forty women have enrolled in the choral section of the Ontario Woman's Club and the work given under the direction of Mr. Charles Ross is progressing satisfactorily.

Mr. Ross needs no introduction to the people of this community as his beautiful baritone voice has been heard many times here. Mr. Ross' work as a director is also well known and under his capable leadership the woman's chorus is fast shaping into a splendid musical organizaton. Mr. Ross is desirous of having fifty voices in the chorus and by paying a small monthly fee, singers may enroll in this class.

Rehearsals are held every Monday evening beginning at seven thirty o'clock at the Ontario Woman's club house on West B street.

REV. MEHL READS HALL-PRIEL NUPTIALS—

Quietly charming was the wedding of Miss Mary Priel of Pomona and Mr. John William Hall that took place Friday morning at eleven o'clock at the home of Reverend and Mrs. J. C. Mehl, 736 East Ninth street. Mr. Mehl read the beautiful nuptial service and Miss Otis Cook Ketcham of Los Angeles acted as maid of honor while Mr. Harry Lee, also of Los Angeles, was best man.

The bride wore a smart afternoon frock of pale yellow georgette with accessories to match and Miss Ketcham was gowned in a chic creation of rose georgette. There were no guests at the wedding and following the ceremony the bridal party motored to The Sycamores for breakfast, later motoring to Los Angeles for the day.

Mrs. Hall was connected with the Pomona Valley Hospital at the time of her wedding and she is a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital at Denver, Colorado. Her family reside in Hillsboro, Oregon.

Mr. Hall, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hall, has lived here many years and at present he is connected with the firm of Grier and Redmon.

Mr. Hall has recently completed a beautiful bungalow for his bride at 156 East Ninth street, where he and Mrs. Hall are at home to their friends.

BOARD COMPLIMENTS LEADERS OF GIRLS WORK—

Members of the woman's board of the Chaffey Girls Work were hostesses at a colorfully appointed dinner last Thursday evening at the Chaffey Apartment, given for the leaders of the various girls organizations and a group of men and women who are interested and have pledged their services for the furthering of this important work.

Miss Rhoda Foster, who is national secretary of the Young Womens' Christian Association and who is known throughout the United States for the splendid work she has done in assisting in the organizing of Y. W. C. A. Clubs, was the guest of honor.

Mrs. H. M. Shattuck, president of the woman's board, presided at the dinner and introduced Miss Foster, who was also the speaker of the evening. Tracing the beginning of the "Woman Movement" from its beginning in 1819 down to the present day, Miss Foster visualized for her hearers the struggles of Mary Ann Evans, who was so rediculed in her efforts to write and publish her first book that she chose to write under the nome-de-plume of George Eliott. Then she painted a word picture of Florence Nightingale, that intrepid nurse, who chose to leave the beaten paths trod by women and volunteered against great obstacles to serve at the front with the soldiers during the Crimean war. Then she brought forth from out of the past Jennie Lind with her beautiful golden voice. "It is just a little more than a hundred years," said Miss Foster, "since these women with their God-given talents and fighting against the odds of ignorance and criticism opened the way for the countless women who since that day have followed in their footsteps and to these first women those intrepid pioneers goes the credit for the inception of the women movement.

"It's just a hundred years since a handful of women had the corrage to express their own individuality," continued the speaker, "and today all over the world we have hundreds of thousands of women who have reached the pinnacle in their chosen professions and who are standing shoulder to shoulder with the great men of today."

Giving some of the more intimate glimpses of her work with the various girls' organizations, Miss Foster said that such questions as "what is right and wrong and how do you know it is so?" and "what do you really mean when you say 'success'?" propounded by some of the girls, oft times leaves the leaders themselves wondering. Speaking of the direct work of the Y. W. C. A. she also said that the effort to understand the other fellow and to glimpse his viewpoint if possible, was one of the foundation stones of the Y's success.

In closing Miss Foster said we women with our nervous energy we women with our clubs and the hundred and one demands that are made on our time must learn to choose the best from the better, learn to recognize the things that are really essential, else if we try to respond to every demand, we shall not be able to continue to do the great good which we are accomplishing. And after all what is life? Isn't is a mingling of hope and joy and love? Aren't these the things that go to make up character and character you know is the one thing that lasts for eternity.

"Let's take time to see God living in all things around us, let's take time from our busy lives, to ready be."

Seventy-five people were present at the dinner and heard Miss Foster's inspiring talk. The long dining tables were beautifully decorated with tall tapers, autumn leaves and clusters of deep purple and blue grapes. Dr. Bert Foster of St. Mark's Episcopal church sat at the speaker's table and pronounced the opening prayer. During the serving of the meal, community singing under the capable direction of Miss Louise Harris was enjoyed.

OLD MAN STORK FAVORS BOY BABIES—

There isn't a doubt that boy babies are favorites with the proverbial Stork and within the last ten days seven of the wee ones brought to the San Antonio Community out of the ten have been boys. No one knows why this preference for boys, but a scanning of the hospital records for the last few months shows the little lads leading the lassies by a large majority.

Following is a list of babies born at the hospital recently:

To Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Nichols of Ontario on Nov. 1st, a boy;

To Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Remington of Ontario, on Nov. 2nd, a boy;

To Mr. and Mrs. B. Young of Claremont, Nov. 3rd, a boy;

To Mr. and Mrs. M. Martinez of Guasti, Nov. 4th, a boy;

To Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bickmore of Chino, Nov. 6th, a girl;

To Mr. and Mrs. George Cathcart of Ontario, Nov. 11, a boy;

To Mr. and Mrs. K .D. Figgins of Pomona, Nov. 11th, a boy;

To Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Horne of Ontario, Nov. 11th, a girl;

To Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Williamson of Upland, Nov. 14th, a boy;

To Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tinger of Chino, Nov. 14th, a girl.

FAMOUS FLORENTINES

The Palazzo degli Uffizi is so enormous and contains such a wealth of art treasures that many visits are necessary before one may feel that he has even skimmed its surface. And I might remark in passing that the palace is not named after one of the old Florentine families, as is the case with many similar structures of the city, but that the word Uffizi means offices.

It was built in 1560 to house the offices of the municipality. The general postoffice is today the only thing which remains to save the name from entire inappropriateness.

Even the exterior is interesting. I always find it entertaining to wander about the great portico and see how many of the famous Florentines, there in marble statuary, I can name without reading the inscriptions. Michael Angelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Savonarola and Dante are of course easy and it is not too difficult to spot Boccaccio, Petrarca, Giotto and Donatello after a few visits, but there are others harder to fix in the memory. I was pleased to make the acquaintance of Amerigo Vespucci, for whom America was named, and Lorenzo, "il Magnifico," who did so much for Florence and for art, also especially interests.

UNHERALDED HEAD CHARMS

If I were asked to pick my favorite of the Uffizi paintings, I fear I should be somewhat stumped. Certainly Raphael's "Madonna del Cardellino" (ot the Goldfinch) must come very near the head of any list, but so must his "Pope Julius II," and so also must Correggio's "Madonna Worshipping Child" and Franciabigio's "Madonna of the Well," not to mention several by Sandro Botticelli, Andrea del Sarto and a score of others.

After all, though, I guess the picture most appealing to me is one which the guide books do not star. It is Pietro Perugino's head of the Monk Baldassare. At any rate, I scoured the art shops of Florence until I found a copy which I considered alike worthy of the original and within the limits of my pocketbook—not the easiest thing in the world. Seldom have I looked upon a more interesting face, combining as it does strength, gentleness and pathos. Of studying it I never tire.

"OLD MAN UNKNOWN" PROLIFIC

To anyone as ignorant of art and its history as I, the names of the different artists mean little on one's early visits. It is surprising, though, how quickly, after a few viewings, you find yourself able to spot Peruginos, Raphaels and Botticellis before you get within range of their inscriptions.

The Uffizi has also a great many "Unknowns" and I had the laugh the other day on a friend who is ignorant of the Italian language and who asked with something akin to irritation: "Who is this 'Ignoto' anyway? So many of his pictures are displayed here and I never so much as heard of him!"

KEEP IT DARK

It is the "Tribuna" of the Uffizi, where hang Raphael's "Goldfinch Madonna" and many other masterpieces and which is set apart also for the display of some especially fine and famous sculptures, notably the Venus de' Medici, that furnished the setting for a rare comedy in which two "sweet young things" were the principals.

"Venus de' Medici," read the "country cousin" of the pair, as she gazed on this treasure from Hadrian's Roman villa. "Well, which one of the de' Medicis is that?"

"Shhh," replied her worldly-wise companion, "that's the one they don't talk about."

TOO MUCH STRENGTH

The Uffizi is famous also for Michael Angelo's "Holy Family," his only finished easel picture in existence and his only work in oil. It has been called the greatest picture in the gallery, but not for me.

It is characterized by perfect grouping, perfect coloring and perfect lines, but one feels it is done to show the artist's genius rather than to convey the message of Christ to the world. The figures are too gigantic, far too robust. The Virgin might be a professional strongwoman and the Christ Child is a veritable young Hercules. There is much power, but no sweetness.

On the great walls and ceiling of the Sistine Chapel, Michael Angelo is superb. On the small canvas, he almost repels.

HUMAN PIN-CUSHION

The Madonna doubtless held first place as the most popular subject among Florentine artists of the Renaissance but I think St. Sebastian must have run her a close second. In wandering about the galleries and churches of Italy and in fact, throughout Europe, you behold Sebastian so often with arrows sticking in his poor body, that you come to think of him as the human pincushion.

The number of arrows was perhaps guaged by the artist's dramatic sense. Said to take the prize in this regard is a Sebastian in the Museo del Duomo in whose body thirty darts may be counted. Sodoma's "St. Sebastian" is probably the finest of this subject in the Uffizi.

TWO TOO MUCH

The Uffizi, like most other galleries of Italy, is free only on Sundays, but it is then so crowded that after one such visit you are glad to pay your fee and go on week days.

The authorities make a bluff at saving you money by offering a combination ticket for Uffizi and Pitti galleries at a reduced rate, but it is a hollow boon. True, the two palaces, although about a mile apart, are connected by a covered passageway over the top of the Ponte Vecchio, but anybody who can "do" one gallery in a day—let alone the second—without becoming a physical wreck, is a better man than I.

CHECK PESTS ON JOB

Then there is the umbrella and walking-stick pest, who is seeming by a necessary evil in all European art galleries If anyone ever got by one of these eagle-eyed vultures with a parasol, a cane or a kodak I have never heard of him. They swoop down on you like a bird of prey and demand their fee for parking your belongings.

I started out the other day for the express purpose of taking some pictures in the beautiful Boboli Gardens, above the Pitti Palace, which are open to the public only twice a week. Do you think I accomplished my purpose? Not a chance. As I sauntered through the gates, nonchalantly swinging my kodak in my hand, an attendant pounced on me. He explained in voluable Italian that picture-taking is not permitted in the gardens, checked my camera and demanded his tip. Another time, friend kodak will remain in my pocket.

CURIOUS NAMES

A little study of the names of Italian artists as we know them is interesting. Many, it is discovered, are known to us only by their first names. In the cases of others we are familiar alone with their nicknames, sometimes derived from the towns from which they came and sometimes with stranger derivations.

If, for instance, someone spoke of the artist Buonarroti, would you know of whom he was talking? His first name was Michelangelo. Pietro Vannucci was called Perugino because he hailed from Perugia. Andrea di Migliore was the son of a tailor and that is why he is known to us today as Andrea del Sarto. Sandro Botticelli, born Filipepi, is said to have derived his cognomen from "Botticello," a nickname given his brother, meaning "little barrel."

BIBLE IN PICTURE

After all, what's in a name? The great thing, the marvelous thing is that they have left us such wonderful heritage of beauty. How it was possible for them to accomplish this seeming miracle has been the puzzle of succeeding generations.

Personally, I believe the secret is to be looked for chiefly in the inspiration of their subject. Study the great paintings of the Renaissance and you will find more than 90 per cent dealing with religious subjects. The Renaissance was first a re-birth of Christianity.

In a day when reading was a luxury, these artists brought the Bible to their fellow men in picture. That they felt what they painted and presented truth as they saw it there can be no doubt.

JUST MISS MARK

It has been a real disappointment to me, as I roam through the galleries of Florence, to find how very few of the paintings of the Virgin and the Infant Saviour are wholly satisfying. Many are beautiful beyond the power of words to describe and yet they just fail to attain that degree of perfection for which one could hope.

Usually it is the Child which spoils the picture for me, or, if He is perfect, the Madonna just misses the mark.

Filippino Lippi's "Madonna Adoring" in the Uffizi gallery is a case in point. Its wonderful blues, its charming landscape and its perfect Mother make it one of the lovliest pictures in all the world Yet for all its sublimity, you cannot gaze upon it without wondering if the Baby has a "tummy ache."

ASTERISK RAVINGS

When it comes right down to it, I don't claim to know anything about art. I only know what pleases me and what does not and I am always ready to admit it, though my frankness in this regard has gotten me "in wrong" more than once.

A Boston spinster, who is staying at my hotel, overtook me the other day in the Uffizi. In her short-sightedness, she was poking her nose feverishly into the pages of her guidebook. Whenever she spotted a star opposite a catalogue number, she would run around in circles until she found the picture referred to and then proceed to rave. Not only that, but she asked me to rave also and, if I ventured to disagree with Herr Baedeker, she handed me a look of withering pity.

I couldn't help wondering what this dame would do if a fly should chance to leave a mark like an asterisk in her catalogue.

TWO SOMETIMES A CROWD

The picture gallery is one place that should be visited alone. It is rare indeed that two persons have tastes enough in common or are possessed of a sufficiently equal capacity for appreciation that they can successfully "do" a gallery together. Where one is enthralled, the other is bored and vice versa.

With a catalogue as my only companion and with no need for hurry, I can lose myself in the joy of an art gallery, but with "fretty" companions, I get nothing. For me, two hours is the limit of any one visit. At the end of that time, I have reached the saturation point and can absorb no more.

NOT ALL BEAUTY

As I have already said, the galleries of Florence are veritable storehouses of beautiful works of art, but there are exceptions. In the Pitti gallery, for example, there is a Guide Reni, which, if done by any artist of today, would quickly be relegated to the scrap heap.

It is labelled "Cleopatra With the Asp." Hideous is the only word that describes it and Theda Bara in her palmiest days was never more cheaply dramatic—nor fatter.

I suppose, however, it is of value in showing the decline of the Renaissance, just as the works of Cimabue and Giotto are of interest in showing its start. Reni was a product of the seventeenth century. His work may be technically perfect, but it too often lacks the noble spirit of his predecessors.

FAILING EYESIGHT

And while we are on the subject of paintings, I always get a "kick" out of the story of the Scotch governess, who was piloting two of her charges through the Uffizi.

Hearing one of the girls refer to a certain picture as "an old master," the good woman was at once concerned as to the child's eyesight, for, as she later recited to a crony, "anyone could see she was looking at the picture of a woman."

HOME REHABILITATION

Home rehabilitation is important both to the property owner and to the city in which the property is located. Today many of Upland's residential streets are lined with homes which are decidedly out of date, and the most valuable thing about the property is its location. The reason the property is not saleable is because the house is not of the modern type, and anyone purchasing a home wants to buy one which has modern ideas incorporated in it.

Hence the idea of Home Rehabilitation

For a small amount of money your home can be modernized. You can give it a modern exterior; a more modern and attractive interior arrangement; greater living comforts; easier heating plan; you can acquire bathroom, laundry and kitchen all strictly modern and efficient.

sang "Trees Where'ere You Walk" by Handel.

Dr R. C. Stone, pastor of the church, pronounced the Benediction and to Mrs. Winifred Johnson, organist-director of the church who presided at the pipe organ during the Vesper service, goes much of the credit for the beautiful hour of music-prayer.

Many requests have reached Mrs. Johnston for a repitition of the music service and it is her present plans to present Vesper services during the coming months.

THE RAMBLER

By J. H. H.

George Aspern of Harrisburg, Pa., who arrived here with his family two weeks ago, has bought two lots on East Ninth street and another on Eleventh avenue .... Mr. Aspern expects to build on these lots in a short time .... He is a builder and is now busy drawing the plans for the buildings .... In the banquet room of the Odd Fellows Hall tomorrow night over two hundred members, their families and friends will be entertained at a banquet .... Sixty-five turkeys have been ordered for the occasion .... The supper will be served by Harry Davis of the Davis Cafe .... As only 100 persons can be seated at one time the banquet will last until all have been served .... The supper will begin at 5:30 P. M. ... Foothill boulevard will soon be marked with the United States shield signs in conformity with the number system of designation adopted some time ago by the American Association of State Highway officials .... The new signs will be enameled metal, shield shape, with black letters against a white background .... They will be mounted on metal posts and across the top will be the word California and the number of the route, 66, at the bottom .... Route No. 66 extends from Los Angeles to the Colorado river at Topock .... Watch your headlights! .... A state - wide drive against illegal and glaring lights was started last week by the division of motor vehicles ... The Breakfast Club which meets at the Davis Cafe is an open forum where the issues of the day are discussed .... The range of subjects is wide, including politics, music, football, baseball, etc. ... Plans for appropriate signs along the highways are being discussed, and members of other Breakfast Clubs will be invited to attend .... Visitors are present at nearly every meeting, and usually express themselves as highly pleased with their entertainment ... Here is the way football started .... When the guardians of the law decided that duels were too heathenish, they set about to find a satisfactory substitute ... Thereupon, some genius invented football and the first game was played in Connecticut ... Frequently there were towns supporting two colleges and 10,000 grudges .... The only thing to do was to organize husky football teams and "go to it" .... Thus were settled the grudges of all concerned without resorting to duelling pistols and gleaming swords .... Duelling is again finding favor with some of the students, but instead of using the old-time weapons, they use overripe tomatoes to settle their grudges .... And so, perhaps, a new sport requiring good marksmanship is being developed .... Distribution of the 1928 automobile license plates will begin one minute after midnight, December 15 .... All the seven-numeral plates, that is above 1,000,000, have been allotted to Southern California, so that vehicles from this section may be recognized anywhere .... San Bernardino County showed great activity in real estate last month, 3,570 instruments being filed, showing an increase of 500 over September ... A company for manufacturing rubber from cactus has been incorporated in this state .... By a new process a ton of cactus will make 156 pounds of juice, which, when combined with other materials, will make a good rubber .... The company expects to plant 500 acres to spineless cactus .... There are many acres between Upland and Cucamonga that could be used for this purpose ... Perhaps some day much of this land can be made profitable ... Father Ricard's prognostications for November have thus far been fairly correct .... Lots of sunshine is promised for this week.

SOMETHING NEW IN ENTERTAINING—

Hostesses who are always on the qui vive for the strictly au fait in entertaining will welcome the morning musical. Now as we all know, there are musicals and musicals. Those of the amateur sort are almost invariably nerve-racking and every one is relieved when the torture is ended. But it is not to this sort of musical we refer, when we mention The Morning Musical. This latter has for its attraction artists who are just that and nothing else.

But, the clever hostess does not stop with the completion of the musical program, no indeed, she follows it up with a smartly planned luncheon, gorgeous decorations and all that and stages the affair at some beautiful club house, or well known country club.

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM AT WOMAN'S CLUB—

A "treat" is in store for book lovers for Mrs. E. L. McCartney, curator of the Literary section of the Upland Woman's Club, has announced that Miss Esther Reynolds of Los Angeles will review several of the newer books at the club house this afternoon.

Miss Reynolds, who has been connected with the Jones bookstore for several years, is a delightful speaker and her close contact with books has given her an intimate knowledge of her topic. Miss Reynolds will kindly suggest the books that are suitable for Christmas gifts.

Miss Sarah Jacabus librarian at the Pomona library, will also appear on the afternoon's program, and she will be accompanied by "Pinnochio," a dainty little puppet. This demonstration will be a part of the book review program.

Mrs. E. L. McCartney will preside at the meeting and the general public is invited.

VESPER SERVICES WELL ATTENDED—

Outside clouds and rain while inside of the Presbyterian church a delightful quiet hour of music. What a relief to escape from the chill of the late afternoon into the warmth and light of the church where the beautiful notes of the Vesper music filled the auditorium. With the first organ notes of that beautiful anthem "Softly Now the Light of Day," sung by the vested choir and on through the well arranged program scarce a breath was heard and it was only with the closing chant, "Lord Now Lettest Thou Thy Servant Depart in Peace," that the audience seemed to breathe again.

Artists who contributed to the lovely musical numbers were Miss Johnston and Miss Garlock, whose violin duets "Adagio," by DeBeriot and the Largo, from concerto in D Minor were so much enjoyed, and Mrs. Karl Kaiser, whose lovely soprano voice was heard to wonderful advantage in "The Ninety and Nine," and Mr. Archie Moore, Upland's own basso, who
